CLAIMS NOTIFICATION AND DUTY OF DISCLOSURE

GUIDANCE NOTES:

TO BE READ IMMEDIATELY AND RETAINED FOR FUTURE REFERENCE

A. CLAIMS NOTIFICATION

The general principles expressed herein are for your guidance but must remain subject to the terms, conditions and limitations of your policy.

- A. 1. Professional Indemnity Insurance policies contain onerous conditions governing notifications of claims. Failure to comply with these conditions is likely to prejudice your rights to indemnity.

Incidents which must be notified also include:-

- a. any incident which you discover and which may subsequently give rise to a claim
- b. intimations of an intention to make a claim whether or not you consider the potential claim to be groundless or likely to succeed, and whether or not the potential claim involves an amount which falls within your self-insured excess.

We recommend that you become familiar with the specific conditions of your policy and ensure that all partners/directors and employees are aware of the procedures for notifying claims and the importance of doing so promptly.

Instructions for notifications are given in Section C.

- A. 2. The policy only covers claims arising out of incidents notified to insurers during the period of insurance.

For this reason, a declaration has to be made, prior to inception of the policy (including renewal or any extension period), that the Insured is not aware of any claims or circumstances which may give rise to a claim. The policy will exclude any claim notified under any other insurance prior to the Insured effecting cover under the Master Policy or any claim arising out of circumstances of which the Insured was aware prior to the Insured effecting cover under the Master Policy.

Such matters constitute material facts (refer Section B) and failure to disclose these may entitle insurers to avoid the policy.

It is therefore in your interests to ensure that in making such a declaration, full enquiry has been made of the sole proprietor all partners/consultants and employees.

B. DUTY OF DISCLOSURE

It is your duty to disclose all material facts to insurers. A material fact is one which may influence a prudent underwriter in the assessment of your risk.

Furthermore, the duty exists right up to the inception of the policy (including renewal or extension period). Any changes in material information which occur between initial disclosure and inception must be notified to insurers.

A failure to disclose is likely to prejudice your right to recover in the event of a claim or entitle insurers to void the policy.
