

Simple Ways to Avoid a Claim

No	Item	Improvements
1.	Does your firm have an established central diary system ?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Diarise all important dates, eg court dates, submission dates, limitation period etc.</li> <li>- Designate a staff to supervise the diary to ensure immediate entry into the diary system and set appropriate reminders.</li> <li>- Make sure everyone in the firm has access, updates accordingly and set reminders for themselves.</li> </ul>
2.	Do you run a conflicts check before taking on a matter?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Maintain a client database for easy reference. Where applicable this should include, full name, identification number, company name, address, subject matter, lawyer-in-charge, file reference.</li> <li>- Send an email to everyone in the firm to check whether there is a potential conflict. This includes branches that you may have.</li> <li>- Make sure the database is updated by immediately including the new client's details in the database once a matter is taken up.</li> </ul>
3.	Does your firm have procedures in place ?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Implement standard policies for handling files, managing client's complaints, handling client's accounts etc.</li> <li>- Make sure everyone in the firm is aware and understand the procedures that are in place.</li> </ul>
4.	Is there any review on paperwork before it is submitted?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Proof read before any document leaves the firm. If necessary, ask a colleague to check on your work.</li> <li>- Do not rely on templates or precedent work by the firm.</li> <li>- Check for any changes in Rules of Court, applicable forms etc.</li> <li>- Make sure the work prepared is as required and agreed by your client.</li> </ul>
5.	Do you issue engagement letters ?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Clarify your job scope and what you will not do clearly with simple terms for the client to understand.</li> <li>- In the letter, include the lawyer-in-charge and who the client can contact should the lawyer is not available, agreed fee and any other aspects of the matter.</li> <li>- Make sure you receive your client's confirmation on your engagement letter before you start the matter to avoid any misunderstanding.</li> <li>- If you are not retained as a lawyer or merely giving preliminary advice, make sure a letter of non-engagement is sent to the person you met in order to protect yourself and your firm.</li> </ul>
6.	Do you use checklists ?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Have a checklist for every area of work (eg conveyancing, litigation, will) and make everyone in the firm use it.</li> <li>- Every new file opened should have its own checklist on the front of the file.</li> <li>- Review the checklist regularly to include any update.</li> </ul>